ABOUT

I'm currently a gigging musician in multiple bands playing all over Bristol and Bath as well as doing multiple tour dates all over the country. I've been playing guitar for as long as I can remember and have a keen interest in production and studio work. During my time at uni, I learned so many new skills and really feel as though I have something to give to the music industry. I strive to make a career from music and will continue to play my own original music as long as I can.
